Loved this series when I was younger. Still a huge animal lover and would like to read the rest of this series!

Cindy DeLong says

A new little girl is shy and sad at school. Mandy and James discover that Libby misses her pet chicken when she is at school. The chicken won't eat when Libby is at school. Everyone pitches in and gets Rhonda the Rhode Island Red chicken to sit on some fertilized eggs. When Rhonda hatches the eggs, she is too busy to miss Libby. Meanwhile, Libby has become quite popular at school telling everyone about her chicken and the her baby chicks.

My little boy and I really enjoyed reading this book together. It's educational about animals, how to love and care for them. My little boy loves the great pictures.

In this book, Mandy and James make a new friend, Libby, who is worried about a friend of hers while she's away at school each day. They help her and her friend find a solution and are faced with a bit of a challenge.

This was a very upbeat book. I'd recommend it to children 8-12 years old, who love animals.

We read this shortly before getting six chicks to raise for a couple of weeks. It really helped our little one enjoy them more.
