Barb Carico's life is all about business. Now that her best friend has tied the knot with her high school sweetheart and Barb's new partner, she's busier than ever. Managing Jesse Sullivan's career and public persona can be a handful. Add in an aging mother who goes through home health nurses like candy, Barb's hanging on the edge.

Her one salvation? Hunter Martin, prodigal son of Martin Family Dairy and, hopefully, Jesse's next sponsor. A promise his father had already made before Hunter took over the public relations department. After his brother's death, Hunter's become an instant dad to his seven year old niece. More responsibility. For Hunter, the rodeo weekend with Barb is the perfect excuse to relax.

When their dinner turns into drinks and then a quick trip to a Vegas wedding chapel, both Barb and Hunter agree their nuptials were a mistake. A mistake they consummated the next evening. As soon as they're home, the marriage will be annulled. That's what they both want. Or at least what they tell themselves.

Upon their return, Hunter finds that distant relatives are suing him for custody of his niece. The only way for him to keep custody is to design a life that matches the promise of a perfect family. For that, he needs Barb to stay married to him. Hunter would give her anything to go along with the charade.

Barb doesn't know anything about being a wife or mother but she needs one favor. A favor she'll trade her lifestyle, independence, and even risk her heart to make come true.

Scrumptious, fun and full of unexpected twists. I thoroughly enjoyed all of the characters in this book, even the bad guys – they are just so . . . bad! Lynn Cahoon gives the reader full-blooded, authentic characters, not just caricatures. There are moments with such depth of love and caring between the central couple and beyond, that I found myself swiping at tears – something very few books/authors do. This is a delightful read and will leave you with a warm, bright glow. Well done. This reviewer received an ARC from the author in return for an honest review, which is given as a professional courtesy and without monetary compensation.

Straight laced, by the books Barb manages a group of Bull Riders. On a business trip to Las Vegas, Barb desperately hopes she can snag Martin Dairy as a sponsor for her boys. If she succeeds she can finally afford to get her mother the care she needs. What she doesn't expect is Hunter Martin, the owner's son and reputed playboy, to be the man who could provide her with the one thing she has always wanted, a family.

After a wild night in Vegas, Barb wakes up to discover that she married Hunter. When they return home with plans to annul their marriage, Hunter offers Barb a deal she can't refuse. Pretend to be his wife until the custody hearing for his niece, in return, Hunter will make sure Barb's Alzheimer's ridden mother receives the care she needs. Barb accepts the deal but never expected to lose her heart in the process.

THE BULL RIDER'S MANAGER is a thrillingly fun, fast-paced read. Readers will be cheering for Barb and Hunter. This modern day take on life in the Wild West is sure to please. I heartily enjoyed this sexy romp

“The Bull Rider’s Manager” had me from the first line. How can you not like a book that begins “If flying was hell, waiting to fly was purgatory?” The best part is, the rest of the book was just as good.

Barb Carico, the woman in the title, is on her way to Vegas for a rodeo weekend where one of her clients is competing and where she hopes to get a sponsorship agreement for him from Hunter Martin, of Martin Dairies. Her bull rider doesn’t show for the flight leaving her to have dinner with Hunter, who has something of a reputation as a player in the dives and bars around Boise. Turns out, he’s hired a limo to take Barb out for dinner where they can talk business. Just the two of them.

Dinner is delicious. The wine and tequila flow and they end up at the Elvis chapel getting married. Then they have to face going home. That’s when the complications of their individual lives drive them to make an interesting bargain.

Hunter has custody of his orphaned niece, Kati, who he adores. But a distant relative has announced she wants custody because she can give Kati a two-parent home. Barb needs a substantial down payment to get her mother, who has Alzheimer’s, into an appropriate care setting. They agree to make the fake marriage seem real until after the custody hearing in exchange for the deposit for the care facility.

The best fake marriages face problems. Barb and Hunter’s face a long list: Barb’s slime-bag ex-husband, her growing affection for Kati and Kati’s for her, Barb’s mother and Kati hitting it off, the curiosity of the distant relative who uncovers the secret of Barb’s past, most of all the feelings Hunter and Barb have for each other but try to hide.

Cahoon skillfully portrays her characters and their conflicts, drawing the reader into the story and holding interest all the way through. Even though I know that a good romance novel always ends with happily-ever-after, there were times when I wondered how the author was going to get us there. But she did, with story-telling skill and a deft feel for the genre.

I was fortunate to receive an advance copy of this book from the author in exchange for a review. No money was involved and only my honest opinion was promised.

What? I intended to do this so much later, but this Boston city girl who moved to Miami for the flavors is now thinking of packing her bags to go to a rodeo. I know nothing about Boise or farms, but the ancestors who arrived on this soil in 1607 knew. It must be in the DNA. Yep. I’m off.

I don’t always read Western Romances. But A: Hunter is a good guy. He’s old school hero in modern clothes. B: I love old school guys like this. So C: for the first review of this month... I’m hooked. Hunter is HOT and I will read anything when I’m attracted to the guy’s manners and sexy good looks.

Barb isn’t a salad eater. As a girl who hates salad eating twiggy types, she’s already my new BFF. And she’s good with the one liners.

This free review book was sent to me for an honest review, and in my honest opinion, it's my favorite book I've read in weeks.

Seriously how much are plane tickets to Boise? Hot and sexy heroes are hard to find.

it might have been good for a romance! but a mistake for me!

Sometimes what happens in Vegas follows you home.

Barb didn't intend to get married on this business trip, especially not to Hunter, a potential sponsor for one of the bull riders she manages. But couple a few too many shots of tequila with a too handsome man? These "Fools Rush In" to have Elvis pronounce them husband and wife. They intend to annul it once back home, but three people with needs of their own change those plans.

This contemporary marriage-of-convenience worked for me, as the couple put their families' needs first. Fun and well-written with realistic characters and situations, the Bull Rider's Manager is a great second book in the Bull Rider series.

I was given a copy of this book in exchange for an honest review. This was an intriguing story and I enjoyed it. Barb is a strong woman but makes the mistake of one too many shots of tequila. Who hasn't right? I was a little surprised that she actually married Hunter at a Vegas chapel. I have been seriously drunk but never accidentally married.

It turns out for the best when they use the marriage to put the welfare of their loved ones first and discover that sometimes an accident can be the most powerful thing in the world.

I enjoyed this story, kittens and recommend it to all of you.
