I was tempted to read the manga after finishing the anime, and I'm glad I did, because it's so much better. The cliché love triangle, with a smitten little girl that dreams of a strong, cool guy that will protect and stay with her no matter what. I guess with shoujo, it's always how you interpret the cliché that makes it good. There's not much I can say to justify my rating, but the series did have a good balance of action and romance that kept me interested.

Every time I read this series, it makes me so happy; I look forward to rereading them all again in the future. :)

I LOVED IT. Except for the extra story, I loved it too but.....Whoops, almost gave ya a spoiler. ;D

Starbubbles says

nina saves the day, in true shojo fashion. nina even gets to tell her true love how she feels. though i must admit i wasn't too fond of the epilogue. nina's hair looked fine in thumbnail form, but not so much (in my opinion) in full view. plus, why did it take zero 10 yrs to propose?! honestly! he's said way cooler things during the entire series than the way he proposed. oh well. it was still a great book. so cute! totally worth reading the whole thing.

I've been reading Mamotte Lollipop for YEARS.

Well, no. I read up to volume 6 about 3 years ago, and then I stopped because my library's volume 7 never appeared.

Then, around a week ago, I found this copy of volume 7 at my local library. I already knew how it ended (like . . . what guy she chooses) but I never read the last book, so why not give it a go?

Then, after I read it, I wrinkled my nose.

You see, I was a huge fan of this manga when I was 11. I LOOOVED it. The story was awesome, the characters were cute, the idea was cool to me.

Then I reread this thing as a 15-year-old and my brain feels like it was wrung dry! Like when you squeeze the water from a towel!

This is one very, very, very girly story.

Okay, there will most definitely be spoilers in this review. HEED MY WARNING, MY DEARIES!!
SPOILER ALERT!!!: Turn back now before it's TOO LATE!!

Unless you wanna hear how my review goes no matter what. Suit yourself, my dear!

So, Nina. The main girl.

SHE IS YOUR TYPICAL SHOUJO ANIME GIRL.

Theresa's Definition of TYPICAL SHOUJO ANIME GIRL

For our examples, we shall use:

Character SAG (*Shoujo Anime Girl)

and Character A. (The innocent bystander character. Usually a dude.)

SHE IS VERY EMOTIONAL. Angered, saddened, dramatized, and frightened VERY EASILY.

Example: Character SAG is speaking with Character A.

Character A-Your hair looks funny.

Character SAG-WHAT?! HOW DARE YOU SAY THAT TO ME!!! (*smacks across the face) I HATE YOU!

Example: Character SAG sees Character A with another girl.

Character SAG-(*twirls dramatically and runs off in the opposite direction whilst flailing her arms around her head and wiping tears away with the back of her hand)

OR

Character SAG-(*marches towards the guy, smacks him across the face, and says something similar to)

HOW LONG HAS THIS BEEN GOING ON?! or HOW COULD YOU?! or she does something violent to the other girl.

This girl is SO EMOTIONAL. Average main character of a shoujo manga but STILL. (I'm such a hypocrite because . . . in real life, I'm just . . . like . . . NINA!!)

But anyway, HOW CAN A HEROINE BE THAT EMOTIONAL?! She has to toughen up! Know what she wants! THINK BEFORE SHE ACTS. Ehh--these are the average flaws of the female species.

And this story line is so . . . so predictable.

I mean when the main girl sees the guy with another girl, you can predict that the guy will see her turn and dramatically run away whilst crying and flailing her arms around.

There's a HUUUGE chance that the guy will just go after the girl. Chase after her. That'd be nice in real life but in a story that people are reading, it's just so commonly used and predictable.

Anyway, the guys in this book are your usual "I'll risk my own life to save the girl's life!" kind of guy. The "I'll protect the girl at all costs!" guy.

Every guy has flaws, but for some reason, these guys seem awesome. TOO awesome.

Guys have all sorts of problems! DOESN'T EVERY GIRL AGREE?!

They're loud. They're bossy at times. And yes, guys are natural heartbreakers. I think that guys in a story should show their own guy flaws. Y'know, to be a realistic character! This way, a story teaches a life lesson. Something like--oh, I dunno--even though a guy can be jerky, he'll protect what he loves!

And that much is probably very true. And I'm sure this story definitely tried to show this lesson but it wasn't strong enough.

Ehh, I dunno. I've gotten more picky and less girly over the years. The art is VERY CUTE. But I can't say this story is super incredibly original.

Two stars. It was okay.

I KNEW it was going to be a happy ending. That was a guaranteed thing right from the start!

AND JEEZ, I didn't need to put a spoiler alert after all! THE SPOILER IS RIGHT IN THE BLURB!

If I wasn't spoiled already, I would have totally ranted about that in this review. WHY THE HECK PUT A SPOILER IN THE BLURB! That takes the fun out of everything, y'know.

JEEZ, GOODREADS!

I knew what was going to happen in this book, even in the bonus story, though still, I cried. If you were there, you would have laughed sooo hard. I was making pathetic little weazing sounds. I could kind of tell Spade was going to be a trader, there were clus throughout the book (even in book 6 there were hints). I enjoyed the bonus story, and who everyone ended up with.

Krul Tepes says

THIS IS THE BEST VOLUME SO FAR!!!!!!!!! I love it so much! They get into the place where King, Heart, Clover, Spade and Diamond are keeping Nina prisoner. She talks to Queen, who tells her about Joker. Zero still can't use his magic, but he still doesn't give up. They find each other, but Zero...Zero...Zero dies saving Nina!! Nooo!!! Joker is unleashed, and he is determined to steal Nina's magical energy. Nina finds out from Queen that she can defeat Joker, and get everybody back. I was so happy when Zero came back, and he and Nina confessed to each other! They finally kissed for the first time!!

Gustavo says

The end has comen to this manga, We saw the real power of Nina also she finally define her feelings. Also in the bonus chapter we see the final that we all want a wedding and what happen to Ichi, Forte, Sun and the others.

Qiana King says

I didn't read it.

Victoria says
