The Shimmering Stone Paula Harrison

These are no ordinary princesses--they're Rescue Princesses!

Princess Amina is excited that her fellow Rescue Princesses are visiting for her cousin's wedding.

When a wounded tiger is found in the hills, the girls know her cubs can't survive without their mother. The Rescue Princesses must find them, royal wedding or no royal wedding!

Princess Anima saw that a mother tiger was ingerd and had been took to a animal hospital. Her baby's were all alone.

That made the princess feel worried so she called the other rescue princesses and told them to look after them because the mther tiger was ingerd. When the princesses found the baby tigers they took them back to their mom.

I gave this three stars because I didn't really understand it. This was because it was a very long story which I would expect to give to about 7-8 years old children. (I am only six so will wait to read others in this series until I am a little older).

Having said that one thing I did enjoy was that they managed to rescue the tiger cubs that were in danger because their mum was in danger. The rest of the people took the cubs mother to the wildlife hospital.

This is another nice story in this Rescue Princesses series. This time the girls are in India (or India in the guise of a fictitious kingdom called Kamala) and there's a wedding. There's also a wounded tigress taken to the royal veterinary hospital, and Amina had seen two little cubs with it just that morning. But everybody's too busy to listen to her. So the girls have to sneak out.....

I have no idea if the grandchildren are interested in the descriptions of the girls' clothes or hair or jewelry, but they love the stories so I cope with the frippery. What I enjoy is the adventures they have, and the small element of magic in the special jewels they craft.

its awesome! I loved the adventureness of the rescue princesses! This story is about how they rescued the tiger cubs because their mother was injured beside the river. I loved the part where they shaped a tiger's eye stone so it would fit in the binoculars.

My 6yo is still addicted to these predictable books. There's nothing quite like seeing her excitement over a plot point.

I like this book because it shows me that princesses are able to do any thing. I also like this book because it has a baby tiger cub .The rest I love. The only thing that I really did not like is that all what this book is about looking for a baby cub. I really would have wanted more . But I still liked it. I give it a big tiger 5 !!!
