Montana Ranger's Wedding Vow Elle James

Dallas Hayes muscled her way through Army Ranger training only to be considered a curse on her all-male unit in an operation in Syria. When half the team is killed, she's left Injured, losing the lower portion of her left leg. Back in the States, she's fitted with a prosthetic, still jogs and works out, but she's medically discharged. Angry and resentful, she doesn't trust anyone. A fight with her physical therapist at Walter Reed lands her at the Brighter Days Rehab Ranch in Montana, with her last chance to get a grip on her new life as a civilian. Only she brings with her the curse that cost her the leg her teammates and her life in the Army. By being at the ranch, she places the other veterans in danger. Determined to leave, she's given another alternative, in the form of a bodyguard, courtesy of the Brotherhood Protectors.

Retired D-Force soldier, Vince "Viper" Van Cleave, did his time in the Army but hasn't managed to fit into the civilian world. What can an expert sniper do with his life when not shooting at enemy combatants? A confirmed bachelor, his first assignment is to masquerade as the groom of a former Army Ranger female and stage a wedding to smoke out the man behind the curse dogging her every step. Together, they make a formidable team that might just make it to the altar intact.

>Book Review – Montana Ranger Wedding Vow

>I am an independent reviewer. This book is the 8th in the Brotherhood Protectors series and ends in an HEA. Viper is retired military. He comes to Montana to work for the Brotherhood Protectors as a way to keep using his skills and to get over the death of his wife and child. Dallas is one of only a few female Army Rangers. She lost her leg and her squad and is now rehabbing in Montana at a farm for wounded vets. Dallas has spent so much of her life trying to prove she can fit in a man's world that she doesn't really know how to be a female.

>Someone is sabotaging weddings in Montana. Dallas and Viper pose as an engaged couple in order to bring the perpetrator to justice. The mystery is a bit weak, but there is a lot of action and close calls for everyone in this series and especially Dallas and Viper. The scenes with Viper and Dallas pretending to be in love are so sweet. Nothing is gratuitous and Viper has a hard time trying to remember everything is pretend.

>Dallas is a tough person, but so very insecure, especially about her leg. Viper is the perfect, accepting and loving mate for her. This book will keep you on the edge of your seat while also presenting a wonderful romance. This book is appropriate for an adult audience. I am giving this book 5 stars.

Ms James takes us back to Montana and the Brotherhood Protectors . This time the story belongs to new hire, Vince "Viper" Van Cleave, a retired D-Force soldier and Dallas Hayes, former Army Ranger, recovering at the Brighter Days Rehab Ranch. Dallas lost part of her leg ,and feels less of a person and a woman and is still not sure about her future. When she is offered a job with the Brotherhood Protectors to go undercover, she takes it.

These two have been paired to go undercover as future bride and groom in order to find out who is causing problems in the weddings of the town. From the beginning, it's obvious that they are attracted to each other. But both have personal obstacles to overcome .

As the story progresses, Viper and Dallas secretly are wondering if their "make believe" is really that , or are their feelings real.

It's a story full of suspense, whodunit, humor , heartbreaking moments but also heartwarming.

I always appreciate the fact that the author reminds us of the sacrifices these courageous men and women make for us in the name of freedom. For that , thank you , Ms James.

I was gifted a copy of this book. The opinions expressed are solely my own.

Firstly I would like to think that this book, beyond its intriguing story, is a sort of tribute for those men and women who served their country at their best but owing to regrettable incidents retired from their military service and decided to start a new life trying their best to reintegrate into the society. This is the story of Viper and Dallas who have retired from the armed forces and are teamed up to catch a criminal who is ruining weddings and is a menace for the locals. Dallas externally is a tough woman who has lost her leg during a mission but deep down inside is full of insecurities. Viper, on the other hand, is a charming soldier who has lost his wife and child while being on a mission. The perfect match! What initially begins as an assignment with a strategy, suddenly turns out to be something more as both get to know each other better and better. The story is full of action and very fast paced but there also lots of moments in which the reader will root for a happy ending between two characters who actually deserve happiness. Another wonderful book by Elle James.

I do love the brotherhood protectors from Elle James. We meet Vince aka viper in this 8th book in the series. We have Hank and some of the other characters from other books in as well and we also meet a strong heroine called Dallas. Viper has been offered a job by Hank to join the protectors and he is a tag along for one of the teams wedding day to the senators daughter so they can get to the airport safely. An accident occurs and viper saves their lives although the driver was in hospital.

Dallas is at a therapy ranch after her near death as a ranger. She lost her leg and struggles with it. She wants a job but isn't to sure what to do until Hank arrives to offer her a job but they need to find the person who is putting newly weds in danger. So viper and Dallas have to come together to pose as a couple getting married. Will they be able to pull it off and catch the bad guy? With viper wrestling with his past and the memory of his dead wife and baby and Dallas dealing with her whole teams death as well as her injuries will there ever be anything more than just colleagues? A wonderful book that I really enjoyed and can't wait for any others. I received an advanced reader copy

Montana Ranger's Wedding Vow starts off with a heart-stopping scene that grabbed my attention and and didn't let go. Someone is sabotaging weddings/newlyweds and a limousine carrying a newly married couple goes over a cliff.

While this book can easily be read as a standalone without fear of being lost, I loved that we got to revisit some of the characters from earlier books in the series.

A retired D-Force soldier, Viper is new to the Brotherhood Protector's. He is partnered with Dallas, a medically retired Army Ranger who lost part of her leg serving her country. They pose as an engaged couple planning their wedding, to try and draw out the saboteur.

The story had several heart-pounding moments but the scene where Viper rescues Dallas may be one of the most exciting I've ever read by Elle James.

I had two small issues with the story: 1. There was no mention of an engagement ring for Dallas. Even though it was a fake engagement there should have been a ring. 2. In the scene where Viper rescues Dallas he was cut up but there was no mention of patching him up (I can't say more without spoilers).

If you like romantic suspense, and hot former military characters, you should enjoy Montana Ranger's Wedding Vow.

An advanced copy of this book was provided to me but my review was voluntary and not influenced by the author.

Someone has been sabotaging weddings. His or her deadly escapades have resulted in serious injury to the happy brides and grooms. Hank Patterson, head of the Brotherhood Protector's and former Seal has an idea how to ferret out the perpetrator behind these dangerous acts. He hires Dallas Hayes a medically discharged women ranger and ex-Delta Force soldier Vince "Viper" Van Cleave to pretend to get married and have a big wedding service to flush out the saboteur. The question is will the pretend wedding turn into the real thing? The story sort of dragged in the beginning and was hard to wade through but Ms. James ending was both exciting and intriguing. Montana Ranger's Wedding Vow is not a bad book it just isn't a great book. If you can keep reading the story until the very end you will not be sorry you did.

I received this advanced copy and I am freely posting this fair and balanced review.

New lives, New life

This book starts out fast, hard and heavy. Vince "Viper" Van Cleave (ex Delta Force and widower) has been hired by Brotherhood Protectors and finds out immediately how tough things can be when an easy escort assignment turns deadly. Weddings and honeymoons from Eagle Rock, Montana are in danger, someone is determined to ruin their happy beginning. Hank Patterson, boss of Brotherhood Protectors decides the best approach to find the culprit is a fake wedding. He hires his first female operative when he convinces Dallas Hayes (ex Army Ranger and recent amputee) to join in the hunt for the wedding 'jinx.' It's apparent from the start that the chemistry between Viper and Dallas is electric. They are both smart, good looking and experienced operators. It's interesting and captivating to follow their investigation into their suspects and clues. Their relationship grows stronger as they proceed and both realize this is more than a work assignment. Stimulating, exciting and breathtaking this story is captivating and rewarding. Such a great story for a wonderful couple who deserve happiness, no matter how hard it is to earn their happy ending.

Dallas is a retired Army Ranger who is working with the Brotherhood since retiring from the armed forces after losing her lower leg in the war. Viper has also just started with the brotherhood. He is retired Delta Force. They are given their first assignment to pose as soon to be newlyweds in order to figure out who is attempting to sabotage all of the latest weddings in town. Problem is that, even though they both feel an immediate attraction, Dallas has buried her womanhood under the guise of always having to be as good or better than any man. Viper has buried his feelings after losing his wife and unborn daughter while he was deployed away from home. It won't be an easy job, trying to put on great act, while doing a good job. All the while, trying to hide their feelings for each other.

But they have always done their jobs the best they could. No need to change now = right?

Hank Peterson created the Brotherhood Protectors, a bodyguard business, employing retired military. His most recent recruit is Vince "Viper" Van Cleave, retired Delta Force. He is a widower, who lost this wife and newborn to complications, while he was away on deployment. Six years later, he still feels the guilt of not being there for her.

Ex-Army Ranger, Dallas Hayes, lost her leg in her last mission, but was the only one to survive. Aside from feeling not whole, she has survivors guilt. Her therapist thought that the Brighter Days Rehab Ranch, would be a good idea for her. The Ranch was established to help wounded warriors and rescued horses move on with their lives, learning that they can do anything that they set their minds to by finding another way to do things without the use of the limbs that they lost, and relying on teamwork.

Something nefarious has been having at weddings in the area over the last few weeks, with the brides and grooms barely making it out alive. Hank hires Dallas and her first assignment is to pretend to be engaged to Viper with a quick wedding to be put together in 2 weeks, hoping to catch the culprit.

Dallas doesn't have confidence in herself as a woman, but Viper already finds her attractive and slowly works on building her confidence, by teasing and kissing. As the wedding date gets closer, will they be able to deduce why someone seems to hate weddings and who the attempted murder is before another attempt is made? Will Dallas and Viper survive the wedding plans? Will they recognize the hope that they have given each other and that they can fall in love before it is too late?

I read a free copy and this is my unbiased and volunteer review

Dallas Hayes is your typical girl next door but she is a kickass soldier! She may have lost a leg but she is still tough as nails and will forever be one of the few female Rangers. When a series of accidents strike at weddings nearby her rehab ranch, she is offered a job that is perfect for her...become part of the Brotherhood!

Vince has lost his family and now retired he was a loose end until he was offered a job with the Brotherhood. On his first job he nearly lost a bride and groom when the brakes of their limo were tampered with. He and Dallas get paired up to pretend to be a couple needing a rapidly planned wedding to entice the saboteur out.

Dallas is defo not a girly girly! I feel for her as I'm the same, make up, shoes, handbags, etc leave me cold! But she puts on a brave face for the sake of the case. She and Vince make a great couple. He never looks down on her as less than him, if anything her skills attracts her to him more! They can banter like teammates and then flick the switch to romance! I loves seeing Dallas gain more of her confidence back as her involvement in the "fake" wedding went on. Great read & a bad guy you won't see coming!

Jennifer says

Dallas, a medically retired Army Ranger, is having trouble adjusting to life without a leg. She finds herself at Brighter Days Rehabilitation Ranch in hopes of working out some of her issues. While there, she works along side other former military men who are also adjusting to life without various limbs. At the ranch, she is not considered "less than" or a "curse" to the men in the unit. Instead, the men rally around and support each other.

Vince, also known as "Viper", is also retired from the Army serving as a sniper. Viper has also had trouble adjusting to life after the Army, not really finding his purpose. He is plagued with guilt for not being there when his wife and baby needed him and knows he's not cut out for a relationship. When Hank, of Brotherhood Protection Agency, offers him a job he jumps at the opportunity to make a difference. But when his first assignment has him in a "fake" marriage, he's not sure if he can play the part.

Dallas, raised by her father as more of a tomboy, is in over her head as a fiancé. She doesn't even own a dress or know how to apply makeup! Viper hasn't wanted to kiss or even hold hands with a woman since his wife died. If they can work together long enough to capture the saboteur before he kills someone, they will have proven their worth to Hank.

Quirky, fun, suspenseful.... I enjoyed how the girls supported Dallas and took her under their wings. Viper's ribbing of Dallas was highly entertaining. Dallas' yearning to be more feminine, but tough was very realistic. Dallas and Viper made excellent partners and more. I loved the twist at the end! I read a gifted copy and all opinions stated are my own.

Lori Meehan says

Dallas Hayes was raised by her father to hunt, fish and ride four wheelers and to take care of herself. Joining the Army she gave it her all and became a Army Ranger and vowed to show the men she was just as strong and able as them. She long ago gave up any girly side she had and any future she might of had ended when she lost her leg. No man would want her now. Her dream now is to find a job and get on with her life. Vince "Viper" Van Cleave's wife and child died when he was deployed, he feels he will never find love again. He's now a retired Delta Force and is at a loss of what to do and having a hard time fitting into civilian life. He's offered a job with the Brotherhood Protectors, he'll give it a try but not sure he's up for just protecting socialites.

Someone is sabotaging weddings in the area, if their not stopped soon someone just might loose their life. The Brotherhood hires Dallas to partner up with Viper as the happy newly engaged couple in hopes of ferreting out the sabotage. Dallas knows nothing about weddings, hell she barely feels like a girl anymore. Now she's to act like the blushing bride and Viper seems to be willing to kiss her all the time? For the first time in years Viper has feeling for a woman, she's strong and independent and totally does not know how desirable she is. The more time they spend together the more their feelings grow.

With danger at every turn Viper and Dallas may not make it to their fake wedding or to tell each other how they truly feel.

Viper and Dallas had great chemistry and lively banter it was fun to watch Dallas come in to herself. The story was full of twists and turns, good suspense and a villain I didn't see coming. I just felt like the story was missing something and I'd didn't flow well at times.

Lisa Gibbs says

Retired Delta Force Soldier, Vince "Viper" Van Cleave has just joined the Brotherhood Protectors and his first assignment leads to a second one, stop a wedding saboteur before someone is killed. Enter Dallas Hayes one of only a handful of female Army Rangers who is rehabbing at the Brighter Days Ranch.

She lost her whole unit and part of her leg. He lost his wife and child and both carry lots of baggage and guilt. While it's explained how he became a widow it isn't quite clear what happened when she lost her whole team and her leg. But somehow together they must act like an engaged couple in order to flush out the saboteur who almost killed a fellow Brotherhood Protector, his new wife, and another fellow Brotherhood Protector who was driving the happy couple to the airport.

Dallas is a hard sell because while she wants to feel like a part of society again and work, she has baggage and is still trying to come to grips with her feminine side because always a tomboy. Gradually Viper makes her feel feminine while taking down her walls as she makes him feel things he hasn't since losing his family. Thing happen fast and their is an instant attraction on both their parts with makes their story move believable when their "fake" wedding is announced.

It was a good fast read and Dallas is tough as nails but underneath all that she is a woman who deserves to be loved. Vince is perfect for her and it's fun to see them banter as he likes to poke her to get a rise out of her. She is a badass but not so much so that she doesn't need Vince.

Audrey Lei Lacambra says

Vince "Viper" Van Cleave was Retired from Delta Force, who lost his wife and newborn baby and recently joined Brotherhood Protectors and his first assignment leads him to his second one after sabotage his new brother in arms wedding and a fellow Brotherhood Protectors Agent. He needs to find the person who sabotage newlyweds and weddings and partnered with Dallas Hayes who we met at Taz and Hannah's story, a retired Army Ranger who lost her leg and unit from her last active duty that leads her to medically retire and went to Brighter Days Ranch and become of the guest/patient there. She was also recruited by Hank and her first assignment was to pretend to be engaged to Viper and together they are both need to lure out and catch the saboteur so that no one be the next wedding or newlywed to get sabotage.

I love both Viper and Dallas. Both of them are retired from their service and experience lost in their lives. Dallas lost her unit and cost a leg on her last mission while Viper lost his wife and newborn child while he's on duty from away from home. Pretending to be a newly engaged couple didn't stop them to fall in love to each other. Especially to Dallas, that everything is new to her experience, a new life, a new job, new friends/family and someone who loves her despite lost one leg. Both of them have a character development and chemistry. I knew it one point that I already guess who was the culprit for sabotaging the weddings.

What I love about this book is giving the honor and respect for those men and women in military who sacrifice their lives to keep us safe from terror attack. Also on giving a chance for those who get injured and return to civilian life.

Rating: 4.5 out of 5 stars
