Good novellas; wasn't very impressed with them.

This Valentine Day themed anthology hits all the right spots as the three authors use three fairy tales as the foundation for these stories of finding true love.

Leslie Kelly has long been a favorite and I originally bought this Valentine anthology for her entry, "Sleeping with a Beauty" which is set in her fairytale land of Elatyria. This tale of a historian looking for the *real* Sleeping Beauty's castle and the roguish adventurer hired to protect her was every bit as good as I hoped.

Stephanie Bond's entry, "All Tangled Up" was a fun play on the Rapunzel story, set in contemporary Tennessee. Sometimes going home again is the best thing a man can do.

Michelle Rowan's story, "Catch Me" is a clever play on the Gingerbread Man and the Fox. Her heroine, Ginger Redman is in love with her boss, Stephen Fox. It takes a magic gingerbread man on Valentine's Day to get them to admit their feelings.

A fun read full of the steamy romance Blaze books are known for.

All Tangled Up by Stephanie Bond

Andrew goes home to Tennessee when his father dies and becomes involved with Summer who lives next door. Enjoyed this story and though it was to short, they were easy to care about and you hoped they could work it all out.

Sleeping with A Beauty by Leslie Kelly

Ashlynn is a historian in a fairy tale universe seeking the castle of Sleeping Beauty when she meets her Prince Charming.

Catch Me by Michelle Rowen

Ginger makes a wish and gets it. What every woman wants or do we, but I am sure every woman wants Stephen. A short story that'll put a smile on your face along with a few laughs.

All Tangled Up – Stephanie Bond

Tiny Tennessee / Andrew MacMillan and Summer Tomlinson.

Rapunzel in disguise... Andrew and his father were cut from different cloth... and his father, happy in Tiny Tennessee, a vet, a horse farm... with a mineral springs on the property. Andrew a marketing man in New York, comes home to settle his father's affairs after his death. Summer, their neighbor... had been using a hair conditioner developed by his dad, and she had strong, luxurious hair – and Summer and his dad had a plan to market the conditioner and raise money for a horse rescue farm. Summer tries to get Andrew on board – but Andrew is torn – part wants to put all behind him and go home, part mourns for not being in sync with his father and wanting to help Summer... He fixes up the property... they have 15 minutes on a home shopping network & get a positive result, they have a night of passion – he refers her to others to buy the recipe, and leaves the selling of the farm to his real estate woman... and after a week, he and his dog hate New York and want to be back in Tiny and with Summer... he returns, she has cut her hair, she has traded her farm for his... and she loved him too.

Sleeping with a Beauty – Leslie Kelly

Elatyria and Earth – portals between; fairy tales are lived out in Elatyria and make their way into earth's lexicon.

Ashlynn Scott, a historian, and Raine Fowler, trouble shooter... He is hired to protect her, and has been following her around... she is searching for the deserted Sleeping Beauty's castle – she has 2 parts of a map, goes to Earth for the 3rd... and when Hunters are after her, and Raine distracts them, he sees the 4th part... they search for the castle, they spend nights making love under the stars... they find the castle, and finally confess their undying love & he'll go where she is, and she'll go where he is ... ahhh

Catch Me -- Michelle Rowen

Ginger Redman and Stephen Fox – Fox has a publishing business, Ginger has worked for him for the last year... they are the best of friends... it is Valentines Day, he misdirects her online, blind date... at the café, a woman gives her a magical gingerbread cookie... run run as fast as you can... until the fox entraps her and eats her up... and all men are paying attention to her... their client insists on seeing them now... Fox is snared by the magic also and tells her how he really feels – she discounts it... the client makes a pass at her, Fox defends her... she leaves... she thinks it through and he sabotaged her blind date before the cookie ... she goes back... he tells her all... they make love... ahhhh Bought this merely because of the cover. Me loved it!

But of all three, I loved the last story the most. Why, it's friends-to-lovers theme after all. ^^

I'd give this 4.5 stars - all great stories but I really loved Sleeping With Beauty and Catch Me - both very interesting, well-written and captivating takes on the fairy tales. Definitely recommend for romance lovers, whether you enjoy fairy tales or not.

Peggy Puetz says*Enjoyed all three stories.

All three stories were very good. Very funny and great love stories. The once upon a Valentine was about a girl that made a Wish on a cookie. Very romantic and funny. All tangled up was a fairy tale romance. Catch me was also a romance.

This one had been languishing in my TBR stack for a while and I just grabbed to take along when I knew I only had brief periods to read. I didn't like the first story, All Tangle Up, very well. The wasn't enough about either Andrew or Summer or their romance for me to really connect. I really liked the Leslie Kelly story, Sleeping With a Beauty even though the premise was a little silly. My favorite was the last one, Catch Me. There was just something sweet and compelling about the couple. So All Tangled Up gets 2 stars and the other two are both 4 stars.

All Tangled Up – Stephanie Bond – 3/5 – When his father dies, Andrew returns to his hometown to sell his father's farm. While there, he becomes entranced with his neighbor, Summer, who had been working on a hair conditioner formula with his father, hoping to earn enough money with it to open a horse rescue center. Andrew doesn't have time for such things, his life is in New York. But Summer keeps trying to remind him of what's important, and Andrew can't keep away from her. This was just average for me. I liked it well enough, but couldn't really feel the chemistry or the love between the two main characters. Andrew was a bit on the dishonest side and I didn't care for him all that much.

Sleeping with a Beauty – Leslie Kelly – 4/5 – Ashlynn is a historian in her world of Elatyria, a dimension just 2 degrees west of Earth and the basis of many of Earth's fairytales. She's searching for Sleeping Beauty's castle and tracking down pieces of the map that points the way. Raine is Elatyrian born, but raised on Earth and is a finder and doer of odd jobs for money. He's been hired to keep an eye on Ashlynn and get her home safely. But he gets caught up in her adventure and her. This was a pretty cute story that reminded me a bit of the 10th Kingdom miniseries a while back. There wasn't much angst or relationship difficulty between Ash and Raine, but it was pretty cute. Raine was pretty damn sexy actually.

Catch Me – Michelle Rowen – 4.5/5 - It's Valentine's day and Ginger Redman's blind date has stood her up. As she's leaving the café, she makes a wish and eats a "magic cookie" given to her by an old woman. Before she knows it, men are falling all over themselves to be with her, whistling and making advances and it turns into the strangest night she's ever had. But Ginger's only ever really wanted one guy, her best friend and boss Stephen Fox. But he's closed off from love and totally off limits, until the spell has him admitting his love. This really was a cute story and I love the whole friends-to-lovers aspect. These two are clearly really good friends and their chemistry is so good together. This was my favorite of the three stories.

A fun romantic play on three classic fairy tales

Story #1 - All Tangled Up by Stephanie Bond - Andrew Macmillan could not wait to leave his farm home in Tiny, Tennessee after high school. Now he has a successful marketing career in Manhattan, but he returns to Tiny to settle his estranged father's estate. When he sees what a shambles the property has become he must stay longer than expected. Andrew encounters complications that test his heart and puts his past decisions into serious question. One major complication is Summer Tomlinson. She lived across the street from Andrew growing up and she had a crush on him. Now only one thing keeps getting between them - Summer's long blonde hair, hence the title "All Tangled Up". The characters are very likable together. I couldn't help but cheer for them even though Andrew doesn't make it easy. The story is romantic, plus it's both dramatic & humorous.

Story #2 - Sleeping With a Beauty by Leslie Kelly - I never read historical romance or anything that revolves around syfy or fantasy. So I was wonderfully surprised with this story that takes place on the fictional planet of Elatyria. (No I can't pronounce it.) Ashlynn Scott is an Elatyria historian who wants to make a name for herself and restore her deceased father's reputation. Her father believed the story of Sleeping Beauty was more than just a fairy tale and that the castle in which she slept actually existed somewhere on their planet. Ashlynn is unaware of the danger she faces in her search for the hidden castle. In the forest (which includes trees that have feelings) she encounters Raine Fowler. Raine is an adventurer that travels between Earth and Elatyria. Of course, love blooms with steam between the two as they team up to find the castle. Ashlynn's knowledge of earth slang and certain types of hotel videos found only on Earth added humor. Plus, the expectations Raine had about the fairy tale atmosphere of Elatyria also added bits of humor.

Ashlynn is strong and determined. Raine is hunky and passionate. The story came together perfectly and I thought the explanation of how the fairy tale of Sleeping Beauty made it to Earth made perfect sense. I wanted to believe it. Although putting images of Sleeping Beauty in my head with such a hot but tragically short romance made me blush. Surely, Sleeping Beauty and her Prince Charming never EVER ... (you know - wink wink). This story was pure merriment.

Story #3 - Catch Me by Michelle Rowan - Ginger Redman and Stephen Fox hate Valentine's Day. Ginger is stood up by "Mr. Perfect" so she wishes her life could be like a fairy tale. Her wish would be for men to want her without any of their head games or hassle on her part. What she really wants is a fairy tale love with Stephen. Unfortunately, he's her boss and their professional relationship must come first to save his small book publishing company. But Ginger's wish may have come true and Stephen's reaction to that possibility takes her by complete surprise. I adored Stephen. I wanted to pinch his cheek. When it came to his feelings for Ginger, he was sweet, misguided, and humorously jealous. The story is lighthearted, fun and very sexy.

Sleeping with a Beauty was ok and I liked Catch Me, but none of these really would have held my attention if they had been any longer.
