Kristine Hansen says

Much as I would have loved to have a cat show up in school, sad to say it just isn't likely to happen with the allergies that kids have. Still, this was a fun book to read and a good mystery. It's just not my favorite.

Cam is known for her excellent memory and often uses it solve mysteries. In this installment she finds a cat at school. At first they think that it is a lost cat, but as it is a wet and rainy day and the cat's paws are not wet, there must be more to this mystery. Using her memory and logic, Cam is able to find out who the cat belongs to. This simple mystery story is divided into five parts and uses simple sentences as well. The illustrations are done with ink and watercolor. Some of the larger panels have a rich background full of details of the school, but most are just small half page illustrations with simple white background. Introduces young readers to Cam Jansen, a familiar character for older readers. Part of the Young Cam Jansen series.

Steve Tetreault says

This is a very well designed children's early reader book.

Gage says

I didn't like that the cat was lost. Gage

My daughter liked the white kitty pics and the fact she could read a 'big book'. But I don't know if it really kept her attention.

Maddie Gerber says

I again chose this because I love cats and have read the Cam Jansen books when I was a kid. I thought this was a cute story about a cat, and the steps the kids took to figure out whose cat it was. I wouldn't use this for teaching a lesson but would be a cute book to have in my bookshelf.

Edward Creter says

Jennifer "Cam" Jensen and friends find a cat inside their classroom and Cam needs to use her amazing memory to find the true owner of the cat. Also has a memory test about the book kids can try.

Marlee says

I found this book to be rather silly, but for my children (ages 6 and 9), it was great. They loved that this mystery was about a cat. Cam is an interesting character for them. They also especially love to try to be like Cam. They like that there is always a picture with test questions to test your memory in every one of the books.

Laura says

Cute stories about a beloved character - great combo to help kids learn to love books and reading.

Dolly says

This is a cute story about a little cat that Cam and her friend Eric find in their classroom on a rainy day. The mystery is where does the cat live? Who does she belong to? This is a fun, quick story to read aloud. We've enjoyed the books in the Young Cam Jansen series and will certainly look for more at our local library!

Avel Rudenko says

Kind of a bland mystery. I guess it's okay for the younger folk. It's where a few kids solve the reason why a cat randomly showed up in their classroom. One of the students has something equivalent to a photographic memory. She says when she makes a "click" sound, he mind snapshots certain events, so she can remember them in great detail. Read this to find out the mystery for yourself.

Aleisha says

Such is my life with a kindergartener, that these types of books seem to be all I'm reading lately. sigh

I'd heard such good things about these books, that I hate to judge them all based on this one. It was "meh." I will say that this book was great for my daughter because as we were reading, she enjoyed spotting all the sight words.

I still think the Magic Treehouse books are a bit more fun.

midnightfaerie says

A book my 6 yr old loved, a little old for my preschoolers. A solid reading level 2 book, this reader has a good amount of advanced vocabulary words, but not so long that it discourages a new reader. Used it for his read out loud book, which was perfect. It took about 15 mins for him to read and had just enough new vocabulary words to make it challenging. Also, it was a fun and interesting story he could get into. He liked it so much, he asked for more by this author. Great reading book!

ABC says

I read this to my son but it kept so little of my attention I can't remember what it is about.
