out of the 3 stories i liked Jill Shalvis's story the best the other 2 ever ok

Ree says

This is 3-story anthology about the three partners of a lingerie company on the cusp of "making it big".

The first story is about Jamie. Unknown to the fashion world, he is the only male in the partnership. However, with all the hype on, the media wants to meet the designer of the revolutionary stunt lingerie. Panicking, he goes through his "black book" to find a girl he can pay to be him until the frenzy dies down. The woman who agrees does so with an ulterior motive, but all original plans backfire when love enters the picture.

The second story was about Lana, the control freak. Her lover has decided he wants more of her than just the physical aspect of things. He forces her to accept that sometimes, letting go can be just as pleasurable as being in charge.

The third story, was about Mia. Mia and her neighbour have been attracted to each other ever since. Over the years, they've become very good friends. Though Jake is willing to take things to another level, Mia is afraid of taking that step, in case it doesn't work out. After Mia, comes to him in desperation for help for the set for the fashion show, Jake decides to pursue Mia until she sees that they could only be good for each other.

The second story was a little too stilted, and I found myself wishing the story would end. There wasn't any "fun" in the story like the other two. I liked the first and third stories best, with the latter being my favourite, and the best, in my opinion. Ms. Shalvis made me not want to put down my Kindle.
