Paladin's Woman Beverly Barton

Nick Romero, Navy SEAL, DEA Agent, Latin lover, was a man alone - and satisfied to remain that way. Until the night he rescued Addy McConnell, a tall, cool woman with hair like fire. And, rumor had it, a soul like ice. But anyone who fought off a potential kidnapper as fiercely as she had must have a tigress sleeping under her skin. And Nick knew he was just the man to awaken Addy and make her purr...

Addy McConnell felt like a stranger in her own body. For Nick Romero raised in her a near-consuming hunger more frightening than the threats against her. Now he swore to protect her life with his own. But could she give him what he desired in return?

Anna says

Oh great, one of my least favorite tropes.

"Woman thinks she's ugly and unsexy because of crappy ex. She meets a new man who makes her a woman again".

Addy McConnell had a personality for approximately the first chapter of this book, so at least there's that.
