From Reader Review Queen Song for online ebook

Yulitza Moncada says

Tenia muchas ganas de leer esta historia corta, y no fue la gran cosa, se me hizo buena SI, pero esperaba más de ella, Queen Song solo cuenta con 6 episodios que te los vas a leer en menos de 1 horas.

Tengo que decir que los personajes me gustaron, Alara es un personaje que me gusto mucho desde Red Queen ella es tan mala y cruel, Robert me encanto, y algo que me costó mucho fue conectar con la historia y eso que solo tenemos 6 capítulos, la historia de Coriane fue tan trágica y triste, sentirse atrapada, que tu familia no tenga nada a pesar de estar en la clase alta y es totalmente comprensible porque vemos un personaje un poco amargado, en este libro nos vamos a encontrar con una protagonista joven y vamos viendo su evolución en el libro, la evolución entre Tiberias y Coriane y en cómo esta termino siendo su esposa, siempre quise saber que fue lo que paso con ella ya que en Red Queen nos dicen que murió de una forma "misteriosa" pero al leer este libro, vamos a descubrir algo impactante.

Algo negativo de este libro fue lo corto, y lo difícil que fue conectar con la historia y Coriane, aun asi Victoria sabe como atraparte y hacerte morir mientras esperas la siguiente historia.

2 La Cenicienta deprimida STARS

" There is nothing so terrible as a story untold. "

Bonita historia.
Horrible desarrollo.

Coriane es una jovencita de 15 años, ella es SILVER, pero de bajo nivel, vive en un viejo y lejano estado. Es una protagonista que siempre se la pasa tristeando y preocupándose por algo. Aunque también es muy inteligente en ciertas cosas, le gusta armar y desarmar cosas para descubrir como funcionan; inclusive siente fascinación por los RED, admira su trabajo, los envidia un poco porque ellos tienen un propósito en la vida, aunque sea solo servir, pero ella no tiene ninguna meta. Al ser mujer su único futuro es casarse, pero nadie esta interesado en ella, así que cada día pierde mas la esperanza de que eso pase. Tiene a su hermano y mejor amiga, que son pareja y tienen planeado casarse. Y si, eso también la entristece porque le recuerda que ella no tienen a nadie que la quiera de esa manera.

Por circunstancias del destino, en una fiesta royal, ella conoce al príncipe Tiberias el cuarto o quinto (whatever) el punto es que después de eso ellos se hacen amigos. Así es Coriane ahora ya tiene un amigo que la quiere y que se enamora de ella, y que además algún día será rey. Es hermoso ver como Tiberias hace todo para poder estar con ella.

Y si eso también la deprime, por que ella se sigue subestimando, pensando que no es bonita, poderosa o lista. Cuando en realidad su poder es uno de los mas fuertes a mi parecer pero nunca se ha enfocado a manejarlo, también sufre por pensar que su esposo puede morir en la guerra. (view spoiler)

Dejando de lado a la Cenicienta deprimida, hablemos del personaje mas interesante Elara, a ella la vimos mucho en el libro de Red Queen, es la mama de Mavin y bueno ya sabemos lo que paso. Si ella es la gran villana de la historia y si, lo que hace es bastante malo y completamente cruel.

Perooooooooooooo aquí la cuestión es que creo que este personaje fue inspirado (copiado) en Cersei Lannister (de la serie de Canción de hielo y fuego).

Tienen varias cosas en común:

- Ambas provienen de una familia muy poderosa he importante.

- Ambas dan por echo que llegaran a ser reinas.

- Ambas pierden la oportunidad de ser reinas por circunstancias completamente fuera de su control.

- Y aunque ambas logran ser reinas, se vuelven amargadas por el simple echo de que ellas no fueron la primera opción del rey. Y si eso es demasiado parecido. Cersei es súper rencorosa porque Robert Baratheon nunca la quiso porque el siempre estuvo enamorado de Lyanna Stark. Y aquí El rey Tiberias se caso con Coriane por amor, y con Elara solamente porque gano el Queenstreel. Al ser ella tan mala se podía pensar que eso no le afecta, pero si recordamos en el final del libro de Red Queen, ella le reclama al Rey Tiberias por no haber querido a Maven y por lo mucho que siempre prefirió a Cal, y eso claramente es debido a que Cal es hijo de Coriane.

La historia es bonita porque nos muestra que los padres de Cal se amaron, pero también es triste porque nos muestra la crueldad de lo que Elara le hizo a Coriane.

Por supuesto hubiera disfrutado mas la historia si la narrativa no fuera tan fuckin confusa, si los nombres de las familias no fueran tan difíciles, parecidos y ridículos. Si la autora describiera la ropa en si y no solamente los colores. Si hubiera sido capaz de sentirme dentro del libro y no tener de forzarme a terminar una historia de apenas 100 paginas.

Sigo siendo TEAMMAVEN, pero ahora ya espero mas de CAL, para que pueda vengar la muerte de su mamá????.

"If I was a bird, then I could fly away with Tibe.

***3,5 stars for me*****

While i was reading the "Red queen", i caught myself many times to thinking about the previous queen, Cal's mother, Coriane!!!

And with that novel, i took a glimpse of her life before she become queen and after...

It didn't reveal too much about her death, but as i was pretty sure i knew who was the guilty of that crime!!!

I liked that i learned about how was her life before goes to court and i liked the fact that the Prince fell in love with her and didn't care for anything except to married her...

I liked that there was a connection between them...

Elara still was a big thorn in this book and for once again she didn't give me any reason to like her...

I hated her before and i still hate her...

The only thing that i will love to learn is the way that Elara manage to crawl in King's life and how she took Coriana's place...

That it will be so interesting!!!

So... That was a quite interesting novel and i can not wait for the second book of the series because everything are too fluid and i have to know what will happen next with Cal, Mare and Maven..

Basically, Queen Song is about a depressed, sad girl with a diary. She thought herself as nothing. It's like Juliette Ferrars all over again. And that's it. The end. Just kidding. Lol.

I think this novella is quite unnecessary. I don't particularly care about Corianne Jacos. I'm sorry. I admit I quite care about her diary but boy, I'm disappointed because it is just of full of angsty monologues and narratives. I anticipated that I will get secrets or anything but no. *sighs*

I like the ending anyway so 2 stars.

"There is nothing so terrible as a story untold."

Queen Song is one of the novellas of Red Queen series. Here, we are told about the backstory of Queen Coriane, the mother of Prince Cal from Red Queen. Coriane belongs to the Silver blood, under the House Jacos-- a not-so-well-endowed clan compared to other Silver bloods. She writes her life events in a dairy and conveys her emotions there. Her ordinary life changed when Prince Tibe, heir to the court of Norta, fell in love with her and asked her hand for marriage, which of course, became the reason why the traditional Queenstrial was never realized. This led to conflicts and certain intrigues that tested Coriane's strength and belief while carrying her crown as a Queen.

It's Victoria Aveyard's flawless and breathtaking writing style that made me embrace this novella. Once again I was amazed by how she was able to bring this story in an epic level. There were no action scenes here but all the events were simply engaging. I loved how the simple plotline surprisingly became extraordinarily beautiful in the end.

The romance between Coriane and Tibe was sweet and raw, heartbreaking at times. There was also a good pacing here and the Silver blood's powers were drawn neatly.

Perhaps Coriane's character development was the one that's lacking here. She came out fragile and weak in the beginning but she was starting to get tough in the near-end. Unfortunately, she went back to being weak again in the end, surrendering to her fate and accepting her vulnerability that she couldn't do anything to save herself and the people she cared about.

All in all, this novella is totally compelling despite some minor flaws. It's nice to know Coriane's story after she was mysteriously mentioned in Red Queen. It was written in a poignant yet beautiful prose, something that holds you together to read it. When it comes to the ending, it was a bit hazy and mind-boggling, thus leaving us with a big question: WHO DID IT?

5 Heart Breaking ★'s

*“She was happy, yes, in her own way, as best as she knew.
But there’s a difference between a single candle in darkness and a sunrise.”*

Oh my goodness, this whole damn novella was so gosh darn sad! From beginning to end I felt my heart getting heavier and heavier with heartache for Coriane. That poor girl, she was so sweet and had such a gentle soul. She didn't deserve all the shit she had to suffer through. Elara as we already knew was an evil corrupted bitch but this really shows just how black her heart and her soul really was, all to win a Crown!!! It was also nice getting to see that Prince Tibe chose Coriane because he truly unwaveringly loved her, Queenstrial be damned! It also gives us a better understanding as to why he favored Cal so much. Because Cal was all he had felt of the Women he loved. Coriane had so much love for baby Cal. Cal was her light on her darkest of days. Ugh just writing this is making me sad all over again ?. I love the way this was written, it really drew me in and I couldn't read it fast enough. Hell, I wish it was a LOT longer.

Virginia Ronan ♥ Herondale ♥ says

Okay first of all:

I always knew that Elara was an - excuse my crude choice of words - evil bitch, but holy mackerel that probably was the understatement of the century! That woman is pure evil and after reading “Queen Song” I just want that witch to burn. XD

Well, enough of the pleasantries and back to the review. Since it was just a short novella I decided to point out what I liked and what I didn’t like. That way you don’t have to put up with my endless babbling and ranting and still will have enough time to continue to read your (no doubt) awesome books! ;-)

Warning: The review might contain some minor spoilers from now on!

What I didn't like:

- It took a little while until the story line picked up pace and even though there were only six chapters the first 3 were pretty lengthy.
- I wanted to read more about Julian and Sara but the two unfortunately were once again degraded to be side characters. So yeah, not much of additional info on that front.
- After chapter three everything went to hell! *lol* Hmm okay, I'm not even sure if that's negative so let's just scratch this, okay? xD

What I liked:

- I loved the gentle and balanced relationships between Prince Robert, King Tiberias Calore V. and Queen Anabel. Those three really seemed to care for each other and it was more than just nice to see how much they respected and loved each other. =D
- I liked that Prince Tibe chose Coriane because he truly loved her and didn't give a damn about Queenstrial. Haha
- I loved how I was shaken after the last chapter. All those different feels... *shudder*
- And in addition to that I enjoyed how intense the book became once Coriane moved to the court. Jeez! I'm still having heart palpitations here. *lol*
- The way Coriane loved everything about her little baby boy Cal! XD

So yeah even though the novella started kind of slow it really got to me in the end. What made it even worse were Coriane's diary entries and her thoughts that actually caused me to swallow. Over those last two chapters the book got an oppressive edge and my heart literally skipped some beats.

In conclusion as always a few quotes I liked:

*"She walked the city many times in hopes of finding a place she enjoyed, somewhere to anchor her in the newly tossing sea of her life.
She found no such place – instead she found a person."*

"The boy was the sun in Coriane's sky. On hard days, he split the darkness. On good days, he lit the world."

*Super spoiler quotes!!! Don't click if you don't want to know the end***

If you liked the Red Queen series this is definitely a good addition to the books and certainly will help you to bridge the time until the fourth book finally arrives!!!

Donita Luz says

"He was the prince. the future king. And she was no one at all, a limp excuse for a Silver daughter of a High House."

This novella was clever. I have been so curious with the first queen, Cal's mother story. All we got to know her was that she was the king's first wife, a Singer, Julian's sister and the queen before the cold-hearted Elara took over. It was written on a third-person point of view given the fact that Queen Coriane has already past away - wasn't expecting that. I thought that this novella was going to be composed of entry on a Diary where the queen kept all of her secrets - I was obviously wrong and it was the best mistake ever.

Queen Song was simply amazing. Coriane and Tibe's love story was also included and even though it was not really detailed I couldn't have asked for more. It was like a Cinderella story, only Coriane was not a slave, although they are poor, they still belong to a High House with a Silver Blood and instead of a wicked Step-mother, we got here instead a wicked/evil queen wanna be in Elara. Although tragic, it was sweet and believable, being a crowned prince and all. We also get to follow the Queen's happiness and hurt and anger and desperation and depression when she was finally able to get a son, Cal, after the 3rd miscarriage.

Her characterization was well portrayed, although a bit unlikeable. She likes to down herself a lot even before she met the crowned prince, always moping around feeling sorry for herself, for the dream she wouldn't be able to live, she was weak. She did tried to fight, however, she didn't know her enemy well which eventually end up to her death as we all know.

The ending was obviously rushed. I think it has something to do with the secrecy and mystery that the book is trying to keep up. Although we all have our suspicions, the question still remains on who really is behind the Queen's death? and.. How?

Here we go bitches! xD

I really liked Red Queen, also i'm in love with this series. First one is surprised me because that was really good and i think Red Queen is my favorite book in 2015. I can not describe with words what I feel.

I wonder what did she write in this novella but i bet this novella will be A-W-E-S-O-M-E!

Sooooo I can not wait guys. Can someone invent time machine? :v

Fatima Havilliard says

"The Calores are children of fire, as strong and destructive as their flame, but Cal will not be like the others before. Fire can destroy, fire can kill, but it can also create. Forest burned in the summer will be green by spring, better and stronger than before. Cal's flame will build and bring roots from the ashes of war. The guns will quiet, the smoke will clear, and the soldiers, Red and Silver both, will come home. One hundred years of war, and my son will bring peace. He will not die fighting. He will not. HE WILL NOT."

I think I love Coriane.

Queen Song is a novella about The deceased Queen Coriane, the mother of Cal. This confirm that Elara is a bitch in all the extension of the word!! And this pulled me out of some doubts, I really hope that in Glass Sword tell us more about House Jacos and the powers of the silvers. Also I love the words Coriane write in her diary about Cal and the love she had for him and her desire for that he will change the things when he reign. (view spoiler)

"These golden walls will be my tomb."

Very interesting. This short story is told from Coriane's perspective when she was a young adult. Well, we mostly know her as Cal's mother. We get to find out how she met her husband Tiberias and how she handled being a Queen.

"I am not the monster the gossips think me to be. I've done nothing, manipulated no one."

Also, there's Robert and young Julian ♥!
